GIFFORD PINCHOT TALKS | RECEIVER DIRECTED FOR TO WOMAN GRADUATES

Representative Kincheloe Also Reverses District Supreme Court in Makes Address at Institute Exercises.

Warning of the trials and tribulations they will have to expect to encounter during the future life was given by Gifford Pinchot to graduates of the Paul Institute at the graduation exercises, in the assembly hall of the school, 2107 S street northwest, this

The exercises were listened to by an audience which packed the hall. The raduates were seated on a stage, which was bedecked with potted plants and cut flowers. The program opened with a processional, the words of which were sung by the class. Rev. Edward K. Hardin gave the invocation.

Miss Louise Weller gave the saluta. tory and the class prophecy was delivtory and the class prophecy was delivered by Miss Elizabeth Hardesty. A vocal solo, "Die Lorelei," was sung by Miss Beulah Harper. Miss Grace Roberts delivered the charge to the junior class, to which Miss Ruth Bissel responded. Miss Slattery rendered an instrumental solo, and Miss Ethel Weller delivered the class will. Indian lore lyrics were given by Miss Margaret Dye, Songs, "Long, Long Ago," "In the City of Misgar," "The Song" and "The Moon Has Long Since Wandered," were sung by Miss Beulah Harper.

Awards to Graduates.

Representative David Kincheloe of Kentucky also made a brief address and Miss Marcella Yingling delivered an essay and the valedictory. Rev. Hardin pronounced the benediction. The awards were given as follows:

Receiving full diplomas for four-vear course, Marcella Thompson Ying-ling, Washington, D. C.; Ethel Eliza-beth Weller, Zanesville, Ohio. Certificates one year short story course, Louise Augusta Weller, Zanes-ville, Ohio; Linda Elizabeth Hardesty, Washington, D. C. Certificate for full English and short story courses, Grace Rogers Roberts, Washington, D. C.

What to Feed the Children.

The Department of Agriculture has enlisted in a movement to preserve the ther than on long run-ups. health of children by advising their mothers just what to put in the lunch basket or on the home lunch table. Not only mothers but many of the educational authorities in the various states have written to the department to inquire just what constitutes a satisfactory diet for children. The following suggested menus, according to Uncle Sam, will give the children, as nearly as is practicable in such a meal, the proper proportions of the different classes of food which are regarded as of sufficient nutritive value: 1—Sandwiches with sliced tender meat for filling; baked apples, cookies or a few lumps of sugar. 2—Slices of meat loaf or bean loaf; bread-and-butter sandwiches; stewed fruit; small frosted cake. 3—Crisp rolls hollowed out and with the sum of t of sufficient nutritive value: 1—Sandwiches with sliced tender meat for filling; baked apples, cookies or a few lumps of sugar. 2—Slices of meat loaf or bean loaf; bread-and-butter sandwiches; stewed fruit; small frosted cake. 3—Crisp rolls hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish, moistened and seasoned, or mixed with salad dressing; orange, apple, a mixture of sliced fruits or berries; cake. 4—Lettuce or celery sandwiches; cup custard; jelly sandwiches. 5—Cottage cheese and chopped green-pepper sandwiches, or a pot of cream cheese with breadand-butter sandwiches; fruit; cake. 6—Hard-bolled eggs; crisp baking-powder biscuits; celery or radishes; brown sugar or maple sugar sandwiches. 7—Bottle of milk; thin corn bread and butter: dates; apple. 8—Raisin or nut bread with butter; cheese, orange; maple sugar. 9—Baked bean and lettuce sandwiches; apple sauce; sweet chocolate. sweet chocolate.

algebra and plane geometry, a Latin, Greek or German grammar, with cullings from the works of Caesar, Virgil, Xenophon, Cicero and Homer. When educators found that adult life overflowed these narrow limits, they introduced manual training, gymnastics, drawing and music; but the child became no more self-conscious, for these were merely additional "subjects."

The radical discovery of today is that the adult world is not primarily engaged in turning information into power. The adult rarely has a historical or a geographical or an arithmetical thought unconnected with experience. What he does is to work very concretely at a myriad of occupations, intellectual and mechanical, concerned with making a living, bringing up a family, through a New England winter for its through a new constitution of the properties of the strength of the culting through a new family and the properties of the strength of the culting through the properties of the strength of the culting through the properties of the strength of the culting through the properties of the strength of the culting through the properties of the culting through the properties of the culting through the properties of the culting through the culting thr naking a living, bringing up a family, dealing with people, casting a vote, reading newspapers. He has a great diversity of horizons, and the most effective people are those who react most intelpeople are those who react most intelligently to their experience as a whole. Power and information increase together, not one at a time. The effective adult is a self-conscious personality. The only school which can be a genuine preparation for life is a self-conscious school. The child must learn to live in the same kind of world that his elders live in. The school must be the community in which his child-life develops. His play and work must be, first of all, interesting activity.

Corfu.

From the London Chronicle. Corfu firmly insists upon its identity with the blissful island of Homer's Phaeacians, which showed such hospitality to the wrecked Odysseus. Not only do the names of roads and villas commemorate the great story, but its scenes are still shown, such as the olive grove in which the Princess Nausicas found Odysseus alseep. Above all, there is the ship which conveyed him home to Ithaca, turned into stone by the wrathful god of the sea upon its return. A model of that ship has replaced the Britannia that crowned the roof of the palace in the time of the British lord high commissioner. And sundry islets round the coast rival each other in the claim to be the ship itself—the favorite being a cypress-covered one with a little white chapel near the dismantled British "one-gun battery."

Corfu came under British protection after the fall of Napoleon. To be precise, 100 years last November it formed part of the United States of the Ionian Islands under the protectorate of this islands under the protectorate of this islands under the protectorate of this country. The government was carried Islands under the protectorate of this country. The government was carried on by two assemblies and a lord high on by two assemblies and a lord high commissioner who represented Great Britain. But things did not work smoothly, There was constant friction between 'the representatives of the suzerain power and those of the islanders. This resulted in Mr. Gladstone being sent out in 1858 as a special commissioner to investigate. He declared against annexation to Greece. But the election of Prince George of Denmark as King of Greece solved the problem and the islands were incorporated with Greece by treaty in 1862.

Diverting Assets to Registry.

The appointment of a receiver for the Royal Insurance Company is directed by an opinion of the District Court of Appeals, rendered today by Chief Justice Shepard. The appellant court reverses a decision of the District Supreme Court, which had directed the assets of the company, said to amount to $42,138.44, into the registry of the to $42,138,44, into the registry of the court.

The appellate tribunal orders Sam uel J. Masters and John B. Kinnear, former officers of the Modern Workmen of the World, to deliver to the Royal In surance Company's receiver the assets as shown in the auditor's report.

In the event any of these assets, says the opinion, have been converted into money the two officials "shall be made to account for the money with interest from the date of its receipt." They are also directed to surrender the bonds and records of the Royal company to the receiver.

Attorney W. Gwynn Gardiner appears for the plaintiffs, Charles A. Hartmann, Byron H. Cohill and Frank T. Evans. The defendants were represented by Attorneys H. E. Davis, W. J. Lambert and J. K. M. Norton. In the event any of these asset

Always Putt to Pass the Cup.

BY STRAIGHT DRIVE.

Just as important as to approach beyond the pin is to play the putts with force enough to pass the hole should you fail to get the ball down. The plan of trying for a safe position on the first putt and drop the ball in on the second try, to maintain an average of two putts to a green, does not guarantee such a consummatation as surely as to be always striving to hole out. "Never up, never in," is a maxim coined as a rebuke to timidity on short putts rather than on long run-ups.

A track meet is to be held May 30 at Clarendon, Va., under the auspices of the Alexandria County Athletic Association. The meet is sancticated by the Amateur Athletic Union. The following events are to be contested: Fifty yard dash, open; 50-yard dash, in a game with the Blue Ridge College.

Place the putter face at right angles to the line of the putt and then play for the back of the cup. Address with the toe of the putter, but keep the club close to the turf throughout the stroke, except for a slight upward lifting just as you start the forward motion, as a gauge of the force to be given to the impact. Have your line as clear to the minds eye as though it had been marked with a streak of chalk, with allowances made for the undulations of the green, and after taking the distance do not look up once the stroke is started. The pitching stars of the league thus far have been Goodwin of Martinsburg, obtained from the Washington Ameriobtained from the Washington American League team, with three straight victories; Frank Colley, a Washington boy pitching for Martinsburg, who has won both his games; "Kid" Scherdell of Hanover, the high school boy who was the sensation of the league last year, who has won both his starts; "Lefty" Baker of Gettysburg, who won the only two games thus far annexed by his team; Ehmling of Chambersburg, who won his two starts, and "Lefty" Clarke of Martinsburg and Stevens of Chambersburg, who each have won their single start. With the pitchers rounding into form only slowly because of the cool, wet weather, it is surprising there has not been more hitting.

more hitting.

A number of Washington and Baltimore boys are playing great ball in the league, and most of them are hitting at a fast clip. Reggie Rawling of Washington, left fielder for Martinsburg, is the league leader, with a batting average of 3.57 and a fielding average of 1.000; Manager "Country" Morris, center gardener for Martinsburg, also is fielding 1.000 and hitting for .345. "Katsy" Dean, another Washington boy, who is playing a slashing second for Martinsburg, is hitting thus far at a .321 cllp. Dean was purchased the first of the season from Hagerstown, this being the first instance of a player being sold outright from one club of the league to another. Lew Blue of Washington is the first base sensation of the league, putting up a game at the initial sack for Martinsburg that has never been equaled in the circuit. He also is hitting at .300 clip, with every prospect of improvement. "Shag" Rawlings of Washington has broken into but two games, being used against left-hand pitchers, but hit over .300 in the few times he has been at bat. "Monk" Walter, a Washington boy, playing center for Hagerstown, is leading his team with the stick, having the fine average of .325. He and Fitcher Winslow are the only .300 hitters on that team, being followed by Third Baseman Sperow, with an aver-
